

Tom Suozzi: A Real Record of Fighting Crime

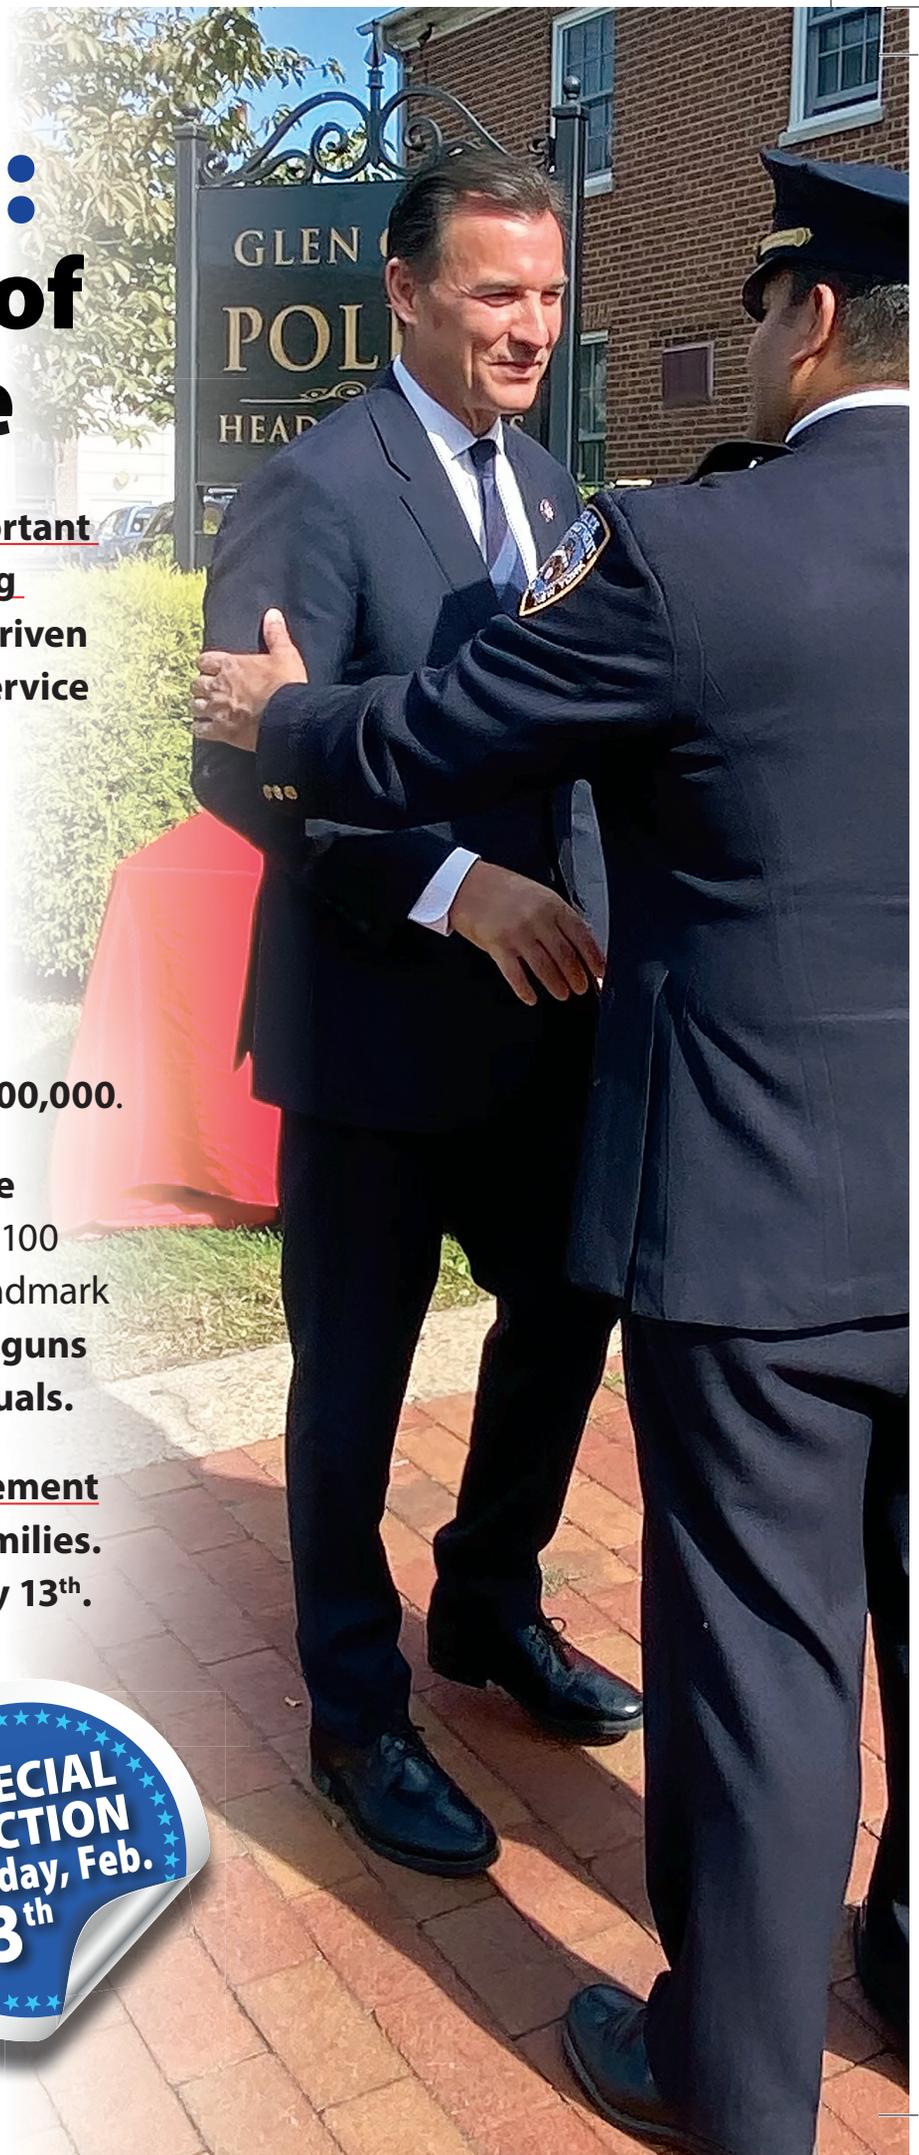

Tom knows that there is no more important job an elected official has than keeping people safe. And that conviction has driven Tom throughout his career in public service

When Tom served as Nassau County Executive, he oversaw the 12th largest police department in the country. During his tenure, the County had its lowest crime rate in decades and was ranked as the safest community in the entire nation with a population over 500,000.

In Congress, Tom fought to address the gun violence epidemic, which kills over 100 Americans each day. He co-sponsored landmark background check legislation that keeps guns out of the hands of dangerous individuals.

Tom has always supported law enforcement and is committed to protecting our families. A safer community begins on February 13th.
